DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-6, 9-12, 14, 15 and 19-31 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Concerning claims 1-6, 9-12, 14, 15, 19-21, 23-27 and 31, prior art fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, an over-voltage protection circuit having a first trigger means that is current triggered by a current trigger element comprising first and second parallel resistive elements; and the current trigger is connected in series with the conductor.

Concerning claims 28 and 22, prior art fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, an over-voltage protection circuit having the voltage trigger element being a transistor device connected between said gate and said anode terminal and the base of the transistor device is connected to a pre-selected reference voltage at said first magnitude.

Concerning claim 29, prior art fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, an over-voltage protection circuit having a second SCR connected in anti-parallel to the first SCR, and second trigger, wherein: the first trigger is voltage triggered by voltages exceeding the first magnitude of a first polarity and the second trigger is voltage triggered by voltages exceeding the first magnitude of the reverse polarity.

Concerning claim 30, prior art fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, an over-voltage protection circuit having a first trigger is voltage-triggered by voltages of a first polarity exceeding a first magnitude on the conductor and current-triggered by voltages of a first polarity exceeding a second magnitude on the conductor; and the second trigger is voltage-triggered by voltages of the reverse polarity exceeding the first magnitude on the conductor and current-triggered by voltages of said reverse polarity exceeding the second magnitude on the conductor; thereby to provide over-voltage protection at two discrete voltage magnitudes of both polarities.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
